

ABSTRACT

Methods for reducing time to result in blood bank diagnostic testing with an agitation device and a low 5 ionic strength solution are disclosed. Specifically provided are methods for reducing incubation time for antigen-antibody reactions in an immunohematologic assay by subjecting the assay reactants to incubation with agitation and optionally additionally a low ionic strength 10 diluent.